It strikes us that this Black Sea Fortress is destined to a historical prestige equal, if not superior, to that of any stronghold in the annals of nations. Certainly, in the number of men lost in its attack and defence, it stands without a parallel. Victor Hugo, in an address to the French people, states, upon reliable data, that the British have lost in the trenches, before the city, thirty thousand men, and the French forty-seven thousand. It is fair to presumeindeed, it is hardly a presumption-that the Russian loss has been equal to the French, making in all one hundred and twenty-four thousand men; and this address was issued on the 24th of February, and its calculations based upon advices received up to that time. It is a moderate estimate, indeed, to put down the deaths since at a number sufficient to swell the aggregate to full one hundred and fifty thousand, combattants is only beginning to come into action .-Sebastopol is stronger than ever. The Know Nothing organs assert that forty-seven of the one hundred delegates to the Virginia Know Nothing Convention at Winchester were or had been Democrats, and yet they cannot produce the names of even seven Democrats, or former Democrats, who took part in that conclave. The Editor of the Petersburg Intelligencer, an organ of the former Whig party of Virginia, who, strangely enough, acknowledges that he had a seat as a delegate in that said conclave, and appears willing enough to contradict the statement of the immense preponderance of Whigs in attendance as delegates, cannot and dare not make his words good by publishing a list of said delegates, nor by furnishing the names of any Democrat who took part. Wherever the delegates can be traced they are found in all cases to have been Whigs. We still remain convinced that the statement made by us some days since on the authority of well informed papers in Virginia, to the effect that the Winchester convention was composed of Whigs with only three exceptions, was substantially correct, and it will take more than the unsupported assertion of such papers as the Richmond Penny Post to change this opinion, in view of the overwhelming array of facts by which it is supported.

The New Bounty Land Law,
The Commissioner of Pensions has issued the following instructions for carrying into effect the new

Bounty Land Law : Where the service has been rendered by a substi tute, he is the person entitled to the benefit of this act, and not his employer. In the event of the death of any person who, living, would be entitled to a certificate or warrant as aforesaid, leaving a widow, or it no widow, a minor child or childre, such widow, or if no widow, such minor child or children, is entitled to a certificate or warrant for the same quantity of land such deceased persons would be entitled to receive under the provisions of said act, if now living.

A subsequent marriage will not impair the right of any such widow to such warrant if she be a widow at the time of her application. Fersons within the age of 21 years on the 3d day of March, 1855, are deemed minors within the intent and meaning of said

To obtain the benefits of this act, the claimant must make a declaration, under oath, substantially, according to the forms hereto annexed. The signature of the applicant must be attested, and his or her personal identity established by the affidavits of two wit. esses, whose residences must be given, and whose credibility must be sustained by the certificate of the magistrate before whom the application is verified.

No certificates will be deemed sufficient in any case unless the facts are certified to be within the personal knowledge of the magistrate or other officer who shall sign the certificate, or the names and residence of the witnesses by whom the facts are established be given, or their affidavits, properly authenticated, be appended to the certificate.

The official character and signature of the magistrate who may administer the oath must be certified by the clerk of the proper court of record of his county, under the seal of the court. Whenever the certificate of the officer who authenticates the signature of the magistrate is not written on the same sheet of paper which contains the signature to be authenticated, the certificate must be attached to said paper by a piece of tape or ribbon, the ends of which must pass under the official seal, so as to prevent any paper from being improperly attached to the certifi-

Applications in behalf of minors should be made in their names by their guardian or next friend .-Where there are several minors entitled to the same gratuity, one may make the declaration. The warrant will be issued to all jointly. In addition to proof of service, as in other cases, the minor must prove the death of his father, that no widow survives him and that he and those that he represents are the only minor children of the deceased. If a party die before the issue of a warrant to which he would be entitled, if living, the right to said war rant dies with him. In such case the warrant becomes void, and should be canceled, and the party next entitled in right of the service claimed should make an application; and if there be no such party, the grant apses under the limitation the beneficiaries to the bounty. If the claimant die after the issue of the warrant, the title thereto vests in his heirs at law in the same manner as real estate in the place of the domicile of the deceased, and can only be assigned or ocated by said heirs.

Applications made by Indians must be authentica ted according to the regulations to be prescribed by the commissioner of Indian affairs.

The Emperor going to the Crimea-Why_Preparations for his Departure-The New Regency. [From the Paris Correspondent of the London Economist.]

Paris, February 22, 1855. The Emperor's project of going to the Crimea is now openly avowed, though it has not been announced officially by the Moniteur. All his ordinary councillors have represented to him the dangers and impropriety of such an undertaking, and he does not himself overlook them; but he has given orders to prepare everything for his departure, waiting for he next report from the Crimea before taking a decisive resolution.

It is reported that Lord Palmerston has sent a note to the English ambassador, who has made representations in the name of England, declaring that in the absence of the French monarch it was impossible to open the conference at Vienna, and then Lord John Russell's mission would have to be postponed.

Gen. Niel, the same who commanded at the taking of Bomarsund, and was sent to Sebastopol in order to survey the state of things and make a report to the Emperor, has arrived in Paris, and was received on tin; with naval stores. Monday last at the Tuileries. His account is far from favorable, and it may urge the Emperor to depart. The general health of the army was indeed mproving, but there were symptoms of insubordinaion and discontent among them.

When the Imperial Guard arrived at the camp they were to take several of the positions which were occupied by the Zouaves. But this corps mutinied, and declared that they would not abandon hem; that they were a choice troop, and would not suffer themselves to be superseded by a regiment who had just come, and had taken no part in the past rials and dangers of the siege. It was the cause of & B. G. the sedition which was reported by telegraphic despatches, and in spite of the Moniteur contradicting these reports, it is quite true that about ten Zouaves condemned to be shot, and a certain number Schr. C. C. Stratten, Meslander, from Philadelphia, to T. were sent to Algiers.

Besides, there are general complaints that there is igalousy between the commanding generals Canrobert and Bosquet, and a want of unity in the plans of Lord Raglan and General Canrobert. The Emperor thinks that his own presence is lispensable to give a direction to the operations of he war, and to inspire the army with enthusiasm at the decisive moment of the general assault on the

An aid-de-camp departed on Saturday last for Marseilles, to prepare the steamer which is to take the Emperor and the troops who accompany him. 6,000 ordiers of the Imperial Guards have received two days ago Minie rifles, and they depart on the 29th inst. The Emperor's departure, which was at first fixed for the 22d instant, and afterwards for the 25th or 26th, is now put off to the 5th of March. Perhaps the advice which is given every day will at st prevail upon him to relinquish his project.

The Emperor intends to take with him Prince Napoleon Bonaparte, the son of Jerome, whose conduct since his return from the Crimea has given him great displeasure. He was recalled on account of his assumed ill-health, and since his arrival he was every night at the balls and soirces, as if to imply that his health was not the true motive for his return. The Council of Regency has been appointed; it consists of Count de Morny, M. Troplong, and M. Baroche; but it will not be announced in the Moniteur. They have only full powers to act in case of extraordinary events. The Emperor's departure is almost the only topic of conversation in all circles, and it has superseded every other question. It seems, however, that Prussia is at last inclined to sign the separate treaty which has been proposed by England and France. FATE OF SIR JOHN FRANKLIN .- An additional gleam of light has been cast over the probable fate of the Franklin Expedition by an Esquimaux named Mastitukwin, who accompanied Dr. Rae's party, and who has been for many years a member of the West who has been for many years a member of the Weslevan Congregation at Roseville, in Hudson's Pay .-Dr. Rae has always considered this native highly effi- Rice-The market has been very active, and prices are fully cient and trustworthy.
